

The diagram illustrates the layout of a book spread. It consists of two main rectangular panels, one on the left and one on the right, separated by a vertical dashed green line representing the gutter. The left panel is labeled 'Rückseite' (Back cover) and the right panel is labeled 'Vorderseite' (Front cover). Both panels are enclosed by a solid magenta border. The entire spread is framed by a blue border, with red lines at the top and bottom corners indicating the binding area. The text is centered within each panel.
